

Philodemus On Piety

Post by "Don" of March 20, 2022 at 11:20 AM

Quote from Nate

Quote from Don

- "natural conception of god" (της του δαιμονος επινοιας) Note we're using daimonos instead of theos here. Not sure why.

Don, do we have any other instances of rhetorical symmetry between daimonos and theos?

Excellent question. I'm not *aware* of any but that doesn't mean there isn't, of course. I often wonder if eudaimonia connotes a connection and what the ancient Greeks understood by using that term.