Wow that is quite a collection thank you Nate!

Quote from Nate

For this reason, many scholars look for other ways to interpret the distinction. The debate about this topic has produced a dizzying array of interpretations. For the purposes of this chapter, I will describe just a few of the most prominent proposals.

THAT (underlined sentence) is for sure!!!

After reading all that I am still at the point ---

"Categorize the pleasures and experience them however you see fit, the guide of life is the feeling of pleasure, not virtue, not religion, not abstract logic."
