

The fundamental Canon

Post by "Cassius" of February 6, 2019 at 10:00 AM

This is a really big issue and getting worse all the time. It has great benefits but great costs so we really need to be sure we have estimated the end result correctly.

I bet there are many apt cites to the same point to support this, but I remember first from Diogenes Laertius that Epicurus said that the wise man "will be fond of the country."