Great article Charles. I see you consider it a rough draft but it is so lengthy and detailed that when you get it to the point where you approve I'd like to move it into an "article" so that it appears in rotation on the front page. Let me know when you are ready to do that, and if you have a graphic that you'd like to see attached to it (otherwise we can make a generic one).

I think we need to make more use of these "longer-form" posts on general issues by listing them as articles so that they rotate on that section of the front page, where lurkers are more likely to see them.
