

Perspectives On "Proving" That Pleasure is "The Good"

Post by "Todd" of December 21, 2022 at 5:38 PM

Quote from Don

From your perspective, what would that category be?

I'm not sure it matters to me right now, as long as it is different from goods. It's just a label, until you want to start putting other things in the category.

But I can identify wrong categories! For example, a category that included the senses, feelings & anticipations would be wrong. I'm only dealing with ethics here.

My best guess at this moment would be to call it The End. But I don't want to prematurely name something and regret it later.

In fact, I will resist labeling anything on principle until it becomes necessary.