

Welcome Thinking Cat!

Hi Kalosyni

Thanks for the welcome. So I have never really been that involved in philosophy. I joined an online debating group that were based in Thailand, probably now debating in real life again (this was during covid) but I found it so difficult to keep up with what was being discussed.

Somehow, I've stumbled across Epicurus on the internet - I came across him on the YouTube channel Einzelganger but the channel also covers other philosophers. So yes, I guess at some point I started reading more around Epicurus and wanted to be able to talk with others who are interested in him and some of his ideas. Not sure I'd ever call myself an Epicurean but I'm currently starting to adopt some of the ideas and interested in applying these in our century and modern way of life.
