

Should Epicurean Philosophy Be Made More Accessible?

I am revisiting this thread without re-reading previous posts, just to say that I have been thinking again about how to make Epicurean philosophy more accessible. Some ideas:

1) Create a "sister-site" which gives a quick overview. We already have NewEpicurean.com ...however...

...it would be nice to have something a bit more streamlined like a regular website which is geared toward modern times and is focused on practical aspects of applying Epicurean philosophy.

2) Get clear on the "existential" issues that Epicurus covers, and create "conversation starters" for in-person meetings.
