

Philosofy in Italy

Post by "Cassius" of May 1, 2019 at 9:24 PM

Also, I forgot but now came back to it ---

Here! I fixed it for you! 😊 --->

The image is a screenshot of a forum post. On the left is a user profile for 'michelepinto', who is online and has 2 'Student of Epicurus' badges. The post itself is titled 'An appeal for philosophy' and is annotated with the word 'EPICUREAN' and arrows pointing to the word 'philosophy' in the title. The post text reads: 'I promised to translate all my new Italian post on Epicuro.org in English. T them here.' and 'I fully share the appeal of Romanae Disputationes to give more important technical study addresses where it is traditionally absent.'

5 hours ago 🌱+1

I promised to translate all my new Italian post on Epicuro.org in English. T them here.

EPICUREAN

An appeal for philosophy

I fully share the appeal of Romanae Disputationes to give more important technical study addresses where it is traditionally absent.

Online

michelepinto

2 - Student of Epicurus

Posts: 54

Map Entry: no