

Distinguishing Metrodorus of Chios from Metrodorus of Lampsacus

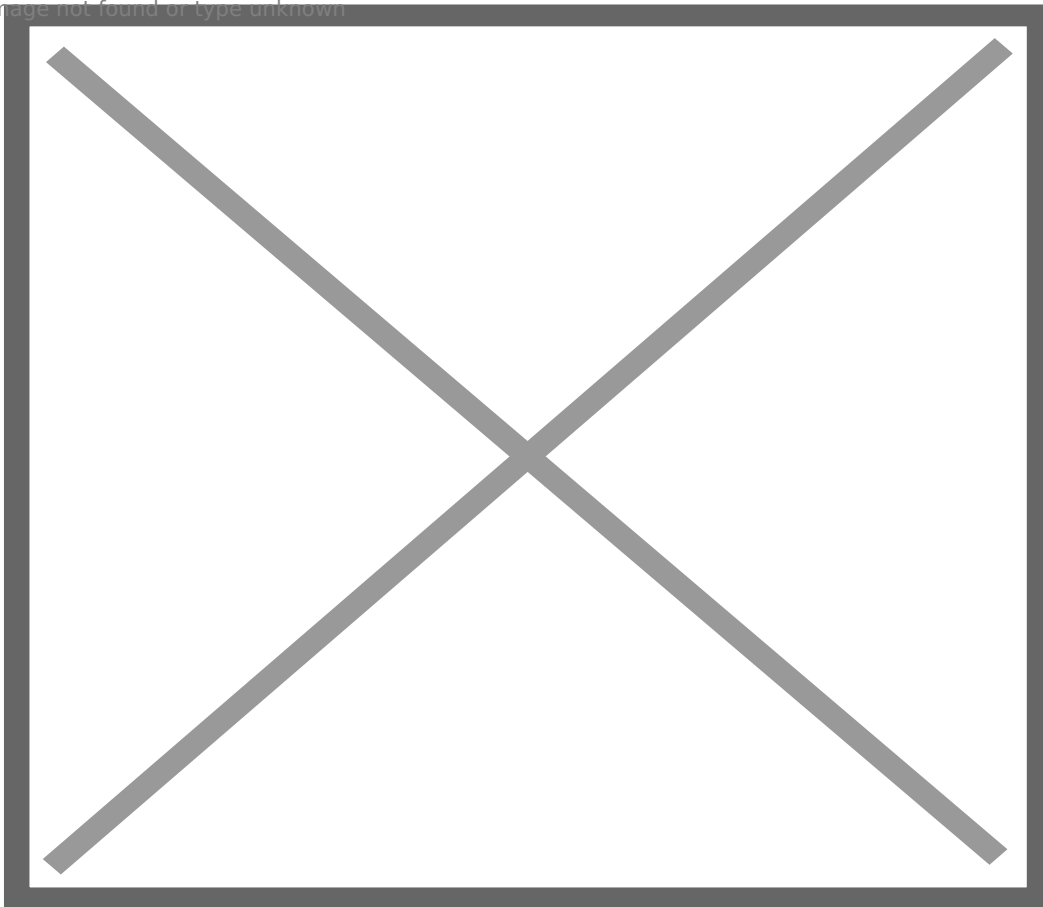

Post by "Cassius" of October 11, 2024 at 7:30 AM

In referring to Chios and Lampsacus (and also Samos as to Epicurus) this is the place to refer to my handy "Map of Places of Significance to Epicurean Philosophy!"

Unfortunately, if we have one it's buried somewhere....

I would normally look for a link to something like that here:

Image not found or type unknown

- Epicureanfriends.com

www.epicureanfriends.com

And there we do have this great map by Eikadistes:

Thread

<http://www.epicureanfriends.com/thread/4079-distinguishing-metrodorus-of-chios-from-metrodorus-of-lampsacus/?postID=32532#post32532>

Epicurean Communities of the Ancient World

epicureanfriends.com/wcf/attachment/2790/

School at LAMPSACUS (modern Northwestern Turkey) Founded by Epicurus

The GARDEN (Ο ΚΗΠΟΣ) of ATHENS (Central Greece) Founded by Epicurus

Community in CORINTH (Peloponnese peninsula, Greece)

Community in CHALCIS (Euboea island, Greece)

Community in THEBES (Boeotia, Central Greece)

Community in THESSALONIKI (Macedonia region, Greece)

Community in KOS (Southeastern island of Greece)

School at RHODES (Southeastern island of Greece)

School at AMASTRIS (Northern...)

Eikadistes

June 6, 2022 at 4:34 PM

But unfortunately it really isn't designed to serve as an "orientation to major places"

So I guess over time we go looking for something additional we can produce or duplicate here on the website as a standard reference.