

New Forum For Discussion of Movies / Books / Arts Which Pose Questions on Proper Pursuit of Pleasure

Post by “Cassius” of May 21, 2019 at 10:38 PM

This is a new forum where you can post links to movies/books/artworks which you think pose interesting questions about how to pursue (or how not to pursue pleasure). The nature of these postings means that it probably is not realistic to expect quick replies, but a strength of the forum system is that people can find the post and reply to it months or years later. Feel free to post links to movie situations or other subjects you think are worth discussing. Please post a link to whether the artwork can be viewed if you can, and also describe the situation which you think is worthy of discussion. General posts to a particular movie won't be very helpful - please describe the scenario of interest.

Discussion of Movies / Books / Artwork Posing Questions Related to Pursuit of Pleasure

Please post new suggestions in that forum -- this thread is just for announcement of the opening of the forum, and any comment you might have about that.