

Friendsgiving

One of my friend groups is doing a Friendsgiving. The wife and kids are going down south for Thanksgiving as her father just started having heart trouble in the last week. My extended family is all scattered to the winds and so I am working some extra shifts at one of my jobs so some other guys can have Thanksgiving off, assuming I get over this flu that's left me bedridden for the past 2 days. I guess either way I'm skipping this Holiday, which is fine as November Eikas was awesome and I've got a mens group starting next week as well.
