For me, the immediate pleasure of choosing is that of agency.

Yes, but this regards the mental operation of Choice/Avoidance itself, whereas...

And this can build upon itself with tiny successes such as choosing to take a break, then taking it when the time comes.

...whatever you Choose or Avoid will bring satisfaction and/or relief, won't it? Seems to me that

- Choice: to do something for satisfaction and other pleasures
- Avoidance: to do something for relief and other pleasures are indeed valid definitions.
