

Welcome Cornelius Peripateticus! (A name we'll consider generically rather than as being a dedicated Aristotelian!)

Post by “Cassius” of March 4, 2026 at 8:38 AM

Quote

an Italian student at the University of Rome in Primary Education (essentially, I'm studying to become an elementary and preschool teacher).

I am particularly glad to see this and hope you will at length contribute your thoughts on childhood education on Epicurean ideas.

The only comment I would add at this point is that this should include not only ethics but also canonics and physics, as those are the necessary foundations of the ethics.

I hope you'll expand your ideas in this area in future threads.