

Welcome Buck23!

Post by “Don” of May 23, 2026 at 11:29 PM

Quote from Cassius

Any particular printed work or collection in your mind?

There's no real necessity for printed works, although keeping an eye on the secondhand bookshops is always fun.

For classical texts, The Epicurus Reader by Inwood and Gerson is solid.

Online, I am very much a fan of the Perseus library:
<https://www.perseus.tufts.edu/hopper/text?do...0%3Achapter%3D1>

Attalus' translation of Usener is indispensable: <https://www.attalus.org/translate/epicurus.html>

For a modern intro, I remain a huge fan of Emily Austin's Living for Pleasure.

Those are some of my go-to sources.