Quote from Bryan

I agree that epibole tes dianoias (mental focus) and prolepseis (anticipations/stereotypes) are two facets of the same faculty. I also agree every sensation (the criteria of reality) is prerational.

Bryan , as I came across this old post, I thought further how to explain “two facets of the same faculty”. Here’s an image from GeminiAI, that was created from this prompt.

Create an image from this description. Display a page of text with this phrase “epibole tes dianoias (mental focus) and prolepseis (anticipations/stereotypes) are two facets of the same faculty”; with an image above showing the human brain and the sections comprising the reticular activating system, demonstrating how the epibole provides the input and prolepsis is the output. Also cite any references that explain this concept.

If there are any inaccuracies in the image depiction, revisions can be easily made now. I intend to check out some of the references.
