I did a quick search in WordPad through the document for the word "disposition" and this is what came out:

Fr. 111

It is not nature, which is the same for all, that makes people noble or ignoble, but their actions and dispositions.

Fr. 112

The sum of happiness consists in our disposition, of which we are master. Military service is dangerous and one is subordinate to others. Public speaking is full of agitation and nervousness as to whether one can convince. Why then do we pursue an occupation like this, which is under control of others?

Fr. 113

Nothing is so conducive to contentment as not being occupied with much business, not tackling distasteful matters, and not being forced at all beyond one's own capability. For all these things provoke disturbances in our nature.
