

Amusing Clip of the Day - "Please Stop Posting Epicurus Quotes"

Post by "Cassius" of August 16, 2019 at 11:41 PM

Please, stop posting Epicurus quotes

Aug 4, 2019

This is something I've noticed for a while now. The guidelines for this subreddit say that posts should remain relevant to Stoicism. Posting Epicurus quotes, without broader discussion of its relevance to Stoicism, is pointless. There's an Epicurus subreddit dedicated to this. I should point out I'm not opposed to discussion of Epicurus in relation to Stoicism or criticism of Stoicism as a philosophy, but I'd argue that this is getting out of hand. I'm sure I'm not the first to notice or point t...

[https://www.reddit.com/r/Stoicism/comm\[...\].7/please_stop_posting_epicurus_quotes/](https://www.reddit.com/r/Stoicism/comm[...].7/please_stop_posting_epicurus_quotes/)

reddit  cached

Post by "Joshua" of August 17, 2019 at 12:06 AM

Ha! I recently came across a post on that sub from a few years back when a guy got a tattoo of Epictetus...except that what he actually got was the face of Epicurus.

<https://www.reddit.com/r/Stoicism/com... i thought was/>

Post by "Cassius" of August 17, 2019 at 7:25 AM

LOL that's great! 😊