

July 6th, 2022 -- Epicurean Philosophy Zoom Gathering

Post by "Kalosyni" of July 3, 2022 at 10:56 AM

Hi Everyone 😊 -- Our next Zoom meeting will focus on PD13 and PD14 -- Please join us again! This meeting is open for new attendees to join as well.

-- We are making a few adjustments to the registration process and the way that we give access to the weekly Zoom meeting link. For those who attended last week, please rest assured that our new changes will guarantee for a pleasant and enjoyable meeting.

-- If you have previously attended, you do not need to get tickets again -- you will automatically receive a private forum message if you are a forum member, or, if you are not a forum member you will automatically receive an email to the address you used to register with Eventbrite. The message or email will contain the Zoom meeting link, and it will be sent out 30 minutes before the start of the meeting.

-- For forum members who have not previously attended -- please post to this thread your interest in attending, and you will be added into the list of members who will receive a private forum message with the Zoom link.

-- For non-member forum readers who have not previously attended -- the registration process will require the answering of a few simple "getting to know you" questions before we will give out the Zoom link. Please go to Eventbrite to register for tickets and receive further instructions.

We look forward to seeing you at our next meeting! 😊

Zoom Discussion: Wednesday July 6th, 8:30pm ET

PD13. There is no profit in securing protection in relation to men, if things above, and things beneath the earth, and indeed all in the boundless universe, remain matters of suspicion.

PD14. The most unalloyed source of protection from men, which is secured to some extent by a certain force of expulsion, is in fact the immunity which results from a quiet life, and retirement from the world.

Thank you for putting that together Kalosyni!

To elaborate on those comments, we want to prevent more Zoom bombing so we will be more judicious on who gets the links and who gets admitted from the waiting room. Due to the zoom bombing last week, from here on if we don't recognize your user name in the waiting room that user name won't be admitted.

We are eventually going to set up a mailing list software which will be more useful as the numbers grow, but for now we'll just maintain the list manually, so if you want to participate please be sure to let us know so we can add you to the list.

Just posted at Facebook:

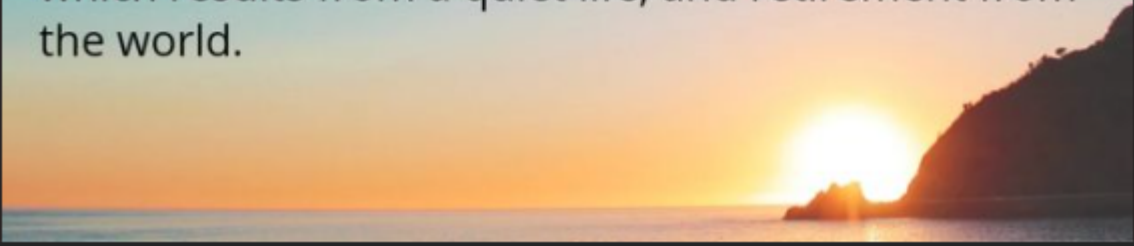

Tomorrow night is our next regular Wednesday Epicurean zoom discussion. The link for this and future sessions will be distributed only to those who register beforehand, so please go to the Eventbrite page and follow the instructions for the new link: <https://www.eventbrite.com/.../epicurean-philosophy-zoom...>

If you have any trouble feel free to send me a private message here at Facebook.

Here is an update for how to join the Zoom meeting:

-- For forum members who have not previously attended -- please post your interest to attend here on this thread and you will receive a private forum message with the Zoom link.

-- For non-member forum readers who have not previously attended -- the registration process will require the answering of a few simple "getting to know you" questions before we will give out the Zoom link through email. Please go to Eventbrite to register for tickets and receive further instructions.

-- If you have previously attended, you do not need to get tickets again. Instead if you are a forum member you should have already received a private forum message with the link.

Or, if you are not a forum member the link will be emailed today to the address you used to register with Eventbrite.
