

"Conceptual Representations From Experiences"

Post by "Eikadistes" of January 22, 2024 at 11:36 AM

An article was shared with me that, I think, grounds prolepsis in neurological science: "This model demonstrated how the neocortex forms efficient conceptual representations from experiences, allowing for both the recreation of past events and the generation of new ones."

Image not found or type unknown

AI Unlocks Secrets of Human Imagination and Memory Formation - Neuroscience News

A new study employs generative AI to shed light on how the human brain processes memories for learning, imagination, and planning.

neurosciencenews.com