- Epicurean Philosophy Discussion
- Open to all Forum Members

This month's discussion
topic: "Guilty Pleasures"?
From PD8 to Seneca's "Do
everything as if Epicurus

Hi Everyone, Coming up next Monday on July 1st is our next "First Monday Epicurean Philosophy Hour - Meet-and-Greet and Discussion" - Via Zoom, 8pm ET.

Open to all forum members! And we especially invite those who are new to the forum! This is a great way to meet, converse, and engage with others who are studying the philosophy of Epicurus.

Agenda:

- Welcome (and introductions)
- Discuss some of the latest popular threads on the forum
- Special discussion topic (includes a very short presentation to introduce the topic)

This month's topic: "Guilty pleasures"? From PD8 to Seneca's "Do everything as if Epicurus were watching you."

We'll be using the same link as last month.

If you have not yet attended a Zoom, please let us know here if you are interested (or send a private message to Cassius or myself) and we will get the link to you by private message (no later than the day before the meeting).

Looking forward to seeing you there! 😊

Regarding the discussion topic... I'll be presenting some "questions" to spur on a lively and fun discussion. 😊

Tomorrow night is our First Monday Zoom Discussion!

The discussion topic is "Guilty Pleasures"...and we'll discuss things like: What qualifies as a "guilty pleasure"...according to whom...and why...what does Epicurus say about moderation...what about guilt/shame...and what was up with Seneca when he said: "Do everything as if Epicurus was watching".

Message me if you need the link...

...hope to see you there! 😊
