

Friendsgiving

Post by “Kalosyni” of November 26, 2024 at 1:44 PM

This seems like something modern day Epicureans would enjoy: "Friendsgiving"... looked it up on Wikipedia:

Quote

Friendsgiving is a Thanksgiving-themed feast meal typically eaten prior to or instead of a family Thanksgiving dinner in the United States. Gatherings are typically a group of close friends, often millennials, although participation has broadened.

The meal began as an additional holiday or as an alternative to the traditional family Thanksgiving gathering for people who could not or did not want to go home for the holiday. For some celebrants, Friendsgiving has evolved from a pre-Thanksgiving gathering to replace traditional Thanksgiving entirely. Most celebrate it as a separate event during the Thanksgiving season.

Read more on Wikipedia

Post by “Root304” of November 27, 2024 at 12:37 AM

One of my friend groups is doing a Friendsgiving. The wife and kids are going down south for Thanksgiving as her father just started having heart trouble in the last week. My extended family is all scattered to the winds and so I am working some extra shifts at one of my jobs so some other guys can have Thanksgiving off, assuming I get over this flu that's left me bedridden for the past 2 days. I guess either way I'm skipping this Holiday, which is fine as November Eikas was awesome and I've got a mens group starting next week as well.