

Planning a Live Convention / Seminar In The United States

Post by “Cassius” of March 19, 2019 at 9:04 AM

I have set up this thread as a place to discuss holding a live seminar somewhere in the United States in 2019 if possible. Presumably we need a place that is easy to get to (centrally located) relatively inexpensive, and yet also a scenic attraction that is sufficient to motivate people who might want to combine the seminar trip with some other kind of site-seeing. We have people currently interested in Epicurus spread out over most of the country, on both the West and East coasts and numerous locations in between.

I'll be posting more ideas in this thread but for the time being this is just to set it up.
