

Reverence and Awe In Epicurean Philosophy

Post by “Cassius” of December 24, 2020 at 2:14 PM

Quote from Don

I am coming to believe that Epicurus and the founders had a much more nuanced, complex, and sophisticated notion of the "divine" than the Stoics or other contemporaries had. A notion that wouldn't necessarily have to be shut up in a drawer or swept under the rug. That's "coming to believe" btw; I'm not there yet.

Yes, that's my position, absent the "not there yet" 😊

Quote from Matt

My original technique to fill in the theological gaps with non-Epicurean concepts ended up disastrous.

I can't recall our precise discussions in the past Matt, but I think the recent discussions we've started are much more thorough than we had the opportunity to do in the past, so I think this time we're going to make more progress on something that is both helpful and makes sense.