

Episode Sixty-Five - Introducing A New Panelist (Don) and Recapping the Opening of Book Five

Post by "Cassius" of April 10, 2021 at 4:17 AM

So Michele modern Italian poetry is now like English in being based to some extent on rhyme rather than so much on "meter"? Probably my question is naive but I don't perceive the structure of the Latin verse to be at all similar to modern poetry - at least English.