

"Post Now" Button Added to Home Page

Due to some recent exposure to the "Discourse" forum software, it finally occurred to me after years of running this website that we didn't have a readily-visible "Post Now" button on the front page. I have now added something right beneath the "Announcements" that should work to get people right into the place to post a new thread in "General Discussion." If anyone has any comments or suggestions about that function, please let me know.
