

"Wise Man" Saying as to Rejoicing At the Misfortune of Another

Post by "Don" of June 28, 2021 at 9:42 PM

Yeah, that's not how Hicks at Perseus translates that section:

Quote

And he will make money, but only by his wisdom, if he should be in poverty, and he will pay court to a king, if need be. He will be grateful to anyone when he is corrected. He will found a school, but not in such a manner as to draw the crowd after him