

"Official Post" Button / Label

Post by "Cassius" of July 17, 2021 at 8:20 AM

In the most recent upgrade of the forum, the software makers introduced the poorly-conceived and rather obnoxious "Official Post" button and label next to the name of administrators/moderators. Such a button/label is probably useful on "help" forums, but is out of place here. I am working to get that button/label removed as soon as possible, but it appears that the software people did not provide a way to disable it - something that is causing some significant irritation on the software support forum for the manufacturer.

As soon as another update is released that button/label will be gone.
