

Anticipations - Justice & Divine Nature

Post by "Cassius" of August 16, 2021 at 3:28 PM

I would say Eric just remember that formulation of absolute law in Cicero's Republic, and compare it to PD 30-40.

Epicurus stands for the proposition that there is no absolute justice or absolute ethical standards, other than pleasure and pain as the guide to all choices and avoidances.

That means that all subsidiary parts of the philosophy, including anticipations, point in that same direction.