Glad to have you AGB -- that is my profession as well, so good to have someone else to help offset Cicero in his anti-Epicurean lawyer arguments!

I always fear that I am too pushy on my main reading recommendation, but just in case you've somehow escaped my regular call-outs on this site (they are actually easy to miss if you mainly use a phone for access) please be sure to check out Norman Dewitt's book for what I think is by far the most sympathetic and sweeping introduction to Epicurean philosophy. Here's a page of info about it.
