

Happy Birthday, Frances Wright!

Post by "Don" of September 7, 2021 at 9:04 AM

Quote from Cassius

In many ways it is excellent; in some ways it is disappointing.

As pertains to this idea, I have a whole different perspective on that work now that I know she wrote it when she was a teenager.

Approaching it as "Epicurean fan fiction" written by a teenage fan of Epicurus might allow for some leniency with her writing. With that in mind, too, it's more sophisticated than what I would initially expect from a teenager.

We are, indeed, evidently neither too young nor too old to love and study true philosophy!