

Contemplative Isolation and Constructive Sociability in the Epicurean Tradition

Post by “Don” of October 12, 2021 at 12:52 PM

Quote from Don

“with an untroubled breast” (placido cum pectore, 6.75)

This is a reminder that Epicureans felt the mind resided in the area of the heart, so this phrase makes perfect sense in that context.