

Epicurean Pleasure and Enjoyment Differs Depending on Introvert vs. Extrovert Brain Differences

Post by "Cassius" of October 20, 2021 at 2:59 PM

I haven't had time to look at the article but I immediately recall that there are aspects of Lucretius' poem that talk about the differences in types of people and what they dream about and similar aspects of their personalities (at least one reference related to the type of "air" that they contain, if I recall 😊) so there are definitely text references that help with discussing personal differences in pleasure.