

Implementing Personal Hedonic Calculus

Post by “Matt” of December 9, 2021 at 1:15 PM

I've been drinking brandy and cognac these last couple of months usually mixed with cider. In autumn and winter when the weather gets colder, I typically switch to hard cider and various Irish and Scotch whiskies. In the summer I typically drink sangria with vodka or tequila. I'll drink beer, but it's infrequent. Usually it needs to be a craft beer of sorts.

As far as wine goes I'll do dry reds like Cabernet and Malbec. And of course if mead is available I'll have a glass. ☐☐☐