

Proselytising and pleasure: compatible?

No proselytising in order to save lost souls who don't want to be saved? Sounds good to me!

And, regarding the second part of your message- in some way, „between the lines“, I meant what you wrote. A major part of my rejection of Buddhism is that I believe that sometimes, it's a good thing to endure some pain in order to enjoy far more pleasure afterwards. Why reject all pain and live a humble life, yet miss out on many possibilities to experience pleasures and joy?
