forget the moon issue.

Is that possible?

"Forget the moon" is either a great name for a band or for a poignant memoir. 😊

Sure, it's possible. There's no way to perfectly calibrate the calendars.

That said, picking a random date in our calendar and sticking to it has precedent: Presidents Day (started as Washington's birthday)... Heck, Christmas is supposed to be Jesus's birthday and that's totally random!

Pick the 7th of December, January, or February and be done is a perfectly feasible solution.
