That is a great visual metaphor, Joshua !! It also alleviates the problem of which is more important or which comes first. All three are needed for the structure. I like it, too, for the idea that the arch can be seen as a portal to the Garden. Too bad the Greeks didn't have the arch. Lintel/post construction isn't as elegant as a metaphor. Maybe that's our visual representation of the philosophy. Better to have an arch necklace than an execution device around one's neck 😊 (Yeah, looking at you, Christians.)
