Yes, you're right! The more I study this philosophy, the more it seems that everything falls into place, and especially- that Epicurus was a very wise man 😄

I really don't care for the word "prudent" because of its modern connotations, but I guess that really is more in the direction we're looking for.

You've expressed it better than I did. You're right, there's no balance in eating poisonous and healthy food, or in drinking dirty and clean water. Thanks for clarifying! Although I'll probably need a bit of time to „consolidate“ this thought, it rationally makes sense.

Excellent post and no need to worry about repetition. We'll be repeating this as long as we live

Glad to hear it, thanks ☐☐
