

What holds me back from embracing EP

Post by "Don" of March 1, 2022 at 2:50 PM

Quote from EricR

Here is what I asked: is it accepted within the community that it's an indisputable fact that "there is nothing other than atoms and void", or is it thought to be a belief that may or may not be true or provable?

I would say it is accepted as fact that it is true that we live in a purely material universe. "Atoms and void" is the shorthand for this foundational tenet of the philosophy. From my perspective, it's no more a "belief" than to say that someone has a "belief" in biological evolution or a "belief" in gravity.