Epicurean Philosophy Zoom Meeting

Wednesday, August 10th - 8:30pm ET

PD19 - Infinite time contains no greater pleasure than limited time, if one measures by reason the limits of pleasure.

PD20 - The flesh perceives the limits of pleasure as unlimited, and unlimited time is required to supply it. But the mind, having attained a reasoned understanding of the ultimate good of the flesh and its limits and having dissipated the fears concerning the time to come, supplies us with the complete life, and we have no further need of infinite time: but neither does the mind shun pleasure, nor, when circumstances begin to bring about the departure from life, does it approach its end as though it fell short in any way of the best life.
