

Nate's "Allegory of the Oasis" Graphic

Post by "Cassius" of January 15, 2019 at 11:40 PM

Nate I just had an idea. Just like I think it is attractive for people to set up their own outlines of Epicurean philosophy, I wonder if at some point it might also be interesting and helpful if people wrote their own commentary to each step of your diagram. Perhaps we could generate an alternate version of the diagram with blank boxes and ask people what they would write at each step.

What do you think of that? And if we did use it that way, I doubt it would require any change in the diagram, unless you've come up with any new ideas.

It might take some time to get this off the ground and maybe some examples (like with the outlines) but I think this might be a useful twist. What do you think?