

Personal Finance from an Epicurean Viewpoint

Post by “Godfrey” of January 30, 2019 at 4:15 PM

This article showed up in my news feed this morning. It's written by a personal finance blogger who from time to time explores a particular school of philosophy and applies it to practical living and finances. Perhaps he over-emphasizes frugality, but he has a nice take on hedonic calculus (without using the term) and an interesting take on applying the overall philosophy.

<https://www.thesimpledollar.com/how-epicurean-...financial-life/>