

The garden as life.

Post by “Joshua” of February 20, 2023 at 6:36 PM

The 'true myrtle' or common myrtle, sacred to Aphrodite.

Onions were a staple vegetable, along with chickpeas which are universal around the Mediterranean. Leafy greens, whether cabbage or lettuce.

Wormwood was Lucretius' metaphor for the bitter medicine of philosophy as some see it.

I think the right answer is 'whatever you please'!