I hope to have this episode released either later tonight or certainly tomorrow. I think our listeners are really going to enjoy this one and its detailed discussion of anticipations.

As you listen, please think about these questions:

1 - Is a prolepsis/anticipation/preconception something that can be considered "True" or "false"?

2 - As to the statements apparently made by Epicurus as to the gods being blessed and incorruptible - are those statements themselves prolepses/anticipations/preconceptions? Are those statements of opinions which are believed to be true, but not prolepses/anticipations/preconceptions themselves?

3 - If you answer that the blessedness and incorruptibility of the gods are not anticipations themselves, then what role did anticipations play in those statements?
