Yes Yudaimon thank you for registering. We try to be considerate of all our members - new and existing -- by making sure new participants are sincere before inviting them to our private events. You and all new members are welcome to participate here on the forum as we get to know each other better.

Also, you (and others) should feel free to message the moderators privately if you would prefer to introduce yourself that way, or you have special considerations that we should know about.

Thanks!
