SEVEN STEPS WITH EPICURUS

If you know this, it only takes a very little trouble to learn the rest: The lessons one by one brighten each other, and no dark night will keep you, pathless and astray, from ultimate vision and light, all things illumined in each other's radiance.

from Lucretius, On The Nature of Things, Book One (Humphries)

As part of our collaborative work toward an "Epicurean Week" we have come up with a series of "power-point" slides which introduce the philosophy in seven simple steps. The formulation here may change over time as we fine tune this as part of our course materials. This will eventually be expanded into a "7 Weeks with Epicurus". Questions and comments are welcome.
