

Episode 181 - "Epicurus And His Philosophy" Part 33 - Chapter 14 - The New Virtues 01

Post by "Don" of July 4, 2023 at 10:28 PM

Quote from Aristotle

"We become just (δίκαια) by doing just acts, temperate (σώφρων) by doing temperate acts, brave by doing brave acts. 1. [5] This truth is attested by the experience of states: lawgivers make the citizens good by training them in habits of right action—this is the aim of all legislation, and if it fails to do this it is a failure; this is what distinguishes a good form of constitution from a bad one." (1103b)

Is that the one you're thinking of?