Cassius et al just wanted to say a huge (and belated) THANK YOU in general for the podcast, but also specifically for this episode. It contained a masterfully constructed string of arguments (by all participants) that covers the most essential, in my subjective view, part of the philosophy. Everything else before this is the basis required to understand the discussion. Everything after this is the "ornamentation".

I will bookmark this episode and use it as a source of readily available condensed katastematic pleasure 😊 .
