Pleasurable as this discussion is, it is starting to remind me of the story in his Philosophical Investigations where Wittgenstein is discussing epistemology in the garden with another philosopher, and the man points to a tree and says: "That is, in fact, a tree. I know it's a tree! I can say I know it's a tree!"

At that moment, Wittgenstein notices that a passerby has stopped and looks at them with a confused expression. And Wittgenstein says to him: "Don't worry. This fellow's not insane. We're just doing philosophy." 😊 😄

And I'm pretty sure we're not insane! 🤔
