

Place to Discuss Epicurean Organizational Theory and Practice

Post by “Cassius” of February 4, 2024 at 8:44 AM

Since we have had a number of threads lately which focus on theory and practice of how Epicurean groups in the present and future might be organizations, I've done some slight rearranging of the forums and created the one below specifically for this. This forum contains links to two of the major articles on the topic, DeWitt's "Organization and Procedure in Epicurean Groups" and Erlend D. MacGillivray's "Epicurean Mission and Membership From The Early Garden To The Late Roman Republic."

This would be a good place to extend some of the recent discussion on how future Epicurean organizational methods might move forward in the future and what they might look like.

Epicurean Organization Theory and Practice