

Dealing With Electric Grid Disruption

Post by “Martin” of May 11, 2024 at 5:04 AM

From my reading of the past, I got the impression that the North American power grid is more vulnerable than the European. California should have particular difficulties to restart when a long black-out happens.